- Our favorite core values are "We are a Team" and "We have fun"!

WHY IS A CORE VALUES POSTER USED?

- Share your team story!
 - It's a long season, so show off what you accomplished at competitions and outreach events.
 - Every team's journey is unique, and judges want to know what makes your journey special.
- Time is limited
 - During judging sessions, you only have a few minutes to share your story. The poster displays the details that may get glossed over while talking with judges.
 - It can serve as a point of reference when talking to judges.
- Not always required, but highly recommended
 - Some regions do not require a core values poster. But why not stand out and have a great poster to brag about your season?

TERMS USED IN THE CORE VALUES POSTER

The Core Values Poster has sections that match up clearly with the rubric

- Integration: How have you incorporated the skills and ideas learned in FLL to everyday life outside of FLL
- Inclusion: How did you consider everyone's ideas and made all team members feel valuable
- Coopertition: How did you honor the spirit of friendly competition and did you help other teams?
- Other: Any other core values you want to highlight goes here

Discovery	Team Name	Inclusion

Some teams make them by hand. Some teams print out text and glue them. Some are simple and some are colorful. Some are smaller, some are rolled up, etc. There are several examples included in this presentation.

WHAT CAN YOU PUT IN A CORE VALUE POSTER

- Anything that highlights the core values your team demonstrated throughout the season
- Describe what the team did, but as they say, “a picture is worth 1,000 words”. So include photos as well
- Team photos should reflect the key areas of Discovery, Integration, Inclusion and Coopertition
 - Photos from an outreach event, team working together on something, team going on an outing

POSTER DESIGN CONNECTED TO TEAM PROJECT

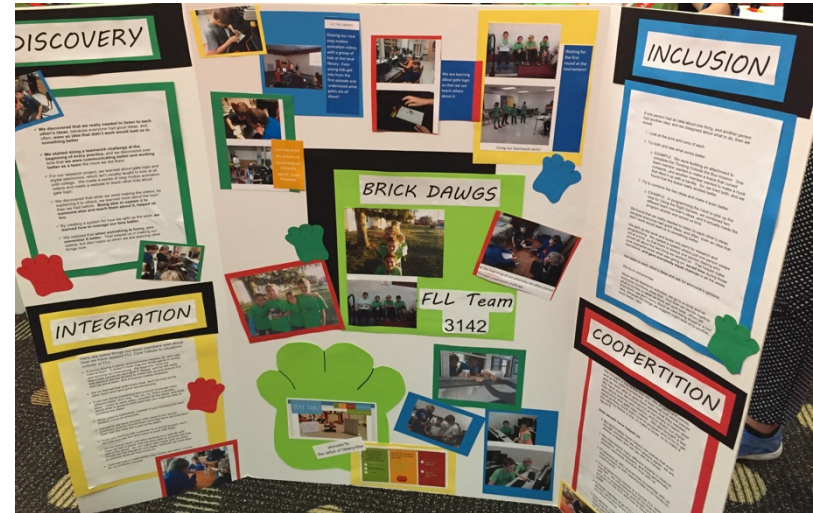

- The Seaford Sea Lions designed their poster to look like the layers of soil and aquifer under Long Island, NY
- They connected their Core Values poster to the season's theme/their project
